

For Immediate Release

September 15, 2008

Congressional Office Available for Assistance

UPDATE: The Congressional office in Victoria is now available for constituent assistance at 361-576-1231

Washington , DC – Congressman Ron Paul continues to be gravely concerned about the devastation caused by Hurricane Ike in Texas and getting help to everyone affected is his utmost priority.

Congressional offices have been staffed over the weekend for constituents in the 14th district. Those in need of information or assistance from the congressional office are advised to call 361-576-1231 and we will do our very best to help. The Congressman's office is acting as a liaison between Federal agencies and constituents to ensure that available assistance is as accessible as possible, and that FEMA and other government agency activities are appropriate, efficient and helpful to Texans. In addition, Congressman Paul's office seeks to ensure that private aid organizations are also allowed to help.

In addition:

The Red Cross can be contacted at 866-GET-INFO (438-4636) or TX211

FEMA can be contacted at (800) 621-FEMA or at www.fema.gov

